EXTERNALLY:

This attractive period home is situated within a delightful and highly sought-after central conservation area, enjoying an enviable position close to the banks of the River Trent and within easy walking distance of the town centre and both local train stations.

A secure personal door opens into a shared passageway with attractive stone-paved flooring, providing access to the property's side entrance. The passageway continues down to two private wooden rear gates, into the split-setup rear garden. Initially the beautifully landscaped formal garden offers an excellent level of privacy. This impressive outdoor space has been thoughtfully hard landscaped and is extensively paved with attractive Indian sandstone, creating ample space for alfresco dining, entertaining and relaxing, with an external double power socket. A mature tree provides a wonderful sense of seclusion, complemented by a combination of exposed walled boundaries and high-level fencing. There is also access into a useful brick-built outbuilding providing additional storage.

Although this garden is enclosed and private, the shared passageway continues behind, where a further personal wooden gate opens into an additional, equally well-appointed mature cottage-style garden. This has been extensively slate-shingled and features a central pathway flanked by attractive mature planted borders, showcasing a variety of established bushes and shrubs. The pathway leads to a charming picket fence and gate, opening onto a raised decked seating terrace and a versatile summer house, providing an ideal space for a home office, hobby room, or a peaceful retreat. The additional garden space enjoys a high-degree of privacy, with fully fenced side/rear boundaries, making the overall outside space a particularly special feature of this charming period residence.
